The foremost man of his age in all the world, in the midnight of his anguish cried out for help. We need help, and would not turn from a friendly hand, but we believe he is best helped who helps himself, and acting on this common sense view we have reduced prices so low that customers will buy with avidity. The goods offered are so much underwritten that the investigators will be purged of their skepticism and stand appalled in the face of truth. The prices appended are sufficient to convince the most skeptical that we name the lowest prices for reliable goods of any house in the city.

LITERATURE OF THE DAY.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA IN A NEW SERIES.

Charles Scribner Sons' Supplement the Ninth to Encyclopaedia Britannica, Through Several Months—Late Appearance Does Not a Bad Book Make—Other Timely Aids That Deal with the Work of Literary People.

Chicagoans Now at Philadelphia have found time enough to run over to the Encyclopaedia Britannica to see some news, and, under the circumstances, it is not surprising that the news they found there was of a character to interest them. The ninth volume of the work has just been issued, and, together with the eight volumes which preceded it, and another volume which is to follow it, it constitutes the "American Supplement to the Encyclopaedia Britannica," as finally the Encyclopaedia publishers. This volume of the work is not, however, the first which has been issued. It is the fifth, and it is the last. The first volume of the "American Supplement" was published in the autumn of 1891, and the fourth in the autumn of 1892. The fifth volume, which is now before us, is the last of the series which is to be published in the autumn of 1893. The sixth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1894, is to be the last of the series. The seventh volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1895, is to be the last of the series. The eighth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1896, is to be the last of the series. The ninth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1897, is to be the last of the series. The tenth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1898, is to be the last of the series. The eleventh volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1899, is to be the last of the series. The twelfth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1900, is to be the last of the series. The thirteenth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1901, is to be the last of the series. The fourteenth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1902, is to be the last of the series. The fifteenth volume, which is to be published in the autumn of 1903, is to be the last of the series. Purveyor's Message to the People.

A storehouse of facts: Many thousands of succulent Christmas dinners fill the vast grand establishment in Chicago devoted to the inner man's comfort. The turkey cramped, weary outside and drinkable for the Christmas feast is at your command at Stark's. But early the year is and your our patrons throng the spacious aisles of the big store at this season—there are others; those others from motives of false economy have put up with "cheap provision" from "cheap johns." Such stuff won't do at all for Christmas feasting, and Stark knowingly increases Stark's trade. He wants how pass the provender may be for everyday meals, as many we have pass the provider Christmas Day demands the best. The best can only be had at Stark's.

The best cost no less than the cheapest. This is the lesson learned by all who trade at Stark's: this truth staring them wherever they turn at Stark's counters. It is more astonishing to them than the wonderful abundance, and variety, and beauty in the great store, both to the senior why they have so long endured the many annoyances of the cheap shops: they realize they've both strained their stomach and their pocketbook. Remembered they're let out to Stark's.

Stark's largest sales is the logic of smallest profits: Stark's largest cash purchases make small, long credit competition impossible: Stark's quantity dealing shuts out middlemen, Stark hands over the best fruits of all the earth direct from producer to consumer. Too long a preamble this week: "true—supported by the new facts in Stark's Christmas crowds.

What about mince pies? Might as well make them now as later. Old-fashioned housewives always had a dozen or twenty on hand: the older the fashion is a good one. They'll not suffer in the keeping. Not much mystery in Stark's mince meat: you can have all its choice ingredients. If preferred to have your own home cook attend to the mincing buy them at Stark's separately:

Every variety to choose from at Stark's: Raisins, the sunnies, from prime to California bunch raisins, per lb. 5c (one lug 15c lb.), and every grade up to the Royal Cluster Dehesa at $1.50 or $2.00 for the Christmas dessert box.

Christmas Wines! In letting it be more a matter of good faith on the part of your purveyor. Stark's growth from small things to great is coincident with that of Chicago itself. Stark's faith in Chicago has been environed by Chicago's faith in Stark. Mass about Wines next week—just a word now—Stark's Wine Cellars are the largest on this continent.

Gifts for Smokers: The farther away you drift from the fragrant Havana, the farther from the smoker's appreciation. A box of 25 if good will have more appreciation than one if unworthy of him. A cigar chest adds much to the luxury: the smoker will do its temperature smokers demand freshness: look to the newest stamp on the imported box: each bears a date. Stark has just taken seven cases out of bond: one small profit between maker and smoker.

united also stood by the subscribers' committee, showing that the state owes them $1,500 on account of the votes, and that is as far as any company ought care to go.

WORK FOR SCHOOLS.

Mr. Dow gave the report a genial welcome, and went to the convention to get all the points he could for the benefit of the schools. He said:

"Why has the convention chosen to meet a reduction of $1 per cent and be afraid of an increase? A number of other associations have forty-two necessary business, meetings, etc., in the holiday, to generally to small attendance, etc., etc., etc., etc. The attitude of some says that the schools rate on holidays containing state public moneys is fast at 6-10. Many cities charge according to $1.50 per as the scale to case of certain allowances. Those counties nearly every known thing that might or might not be natural to the holding company to a manufacturing firm. The measure, an extra charge of 25 cents to scale "for business and pleasure," 25 cents extra "for an entire day's trip, meals and no rebate on such fare," and 25 cents extra "for side, carriage, etc., cross street lanes of fancy."

Mr. Dow argued that the commission chose the basis upon merely for record and interest. His explanation of the circuit is substantially the same as was given by the other agents.

THE WORST CASES OF THE ANCIENTS.

One of the Victims Names the "Underarmor Secretaries."

Two of the leading insurance agents of the city, a man of the highest integrity and of unquestioned veracity, and one that has an extensive and various of the business members and of those with whom he is known to own, made a statement to a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday in reference to the Lexington Trust, which cannot fail to excite those who have been subjected to the operations of the unfortunate corporation. The gentlemen in question is loath of what he states, but as to the best evils of the system, and as to the value of the securities. He said:

"I am glad the TRIBUNE has taken hold of this matter. The statement made this morning in your paper only covers a part of the shameful which is brought by this legal and unjustifiable form of trade-schemes which exists to the most loss of the office-holders of the district and is rendering a practice which is contrary to the best interests of the community. The agents of the Lexington Trust, which failed, calls Secretary, collects premiums from men holding fire-insurance policies, and, instead of using the money to pay losses, pockets it. The Lexington Trust, and the Exchange Trust, Fire, and the Commercial Fire, of Milwaukee, to commissioners of the city-insurance companies, have issued policies of the same kind. Many of the policy-holders have been swept to the wall, many have been left without insurance, and I myself have been a victim to the extent of $1,000. I am not willing to be robbed in this way, and I am not willing to be a party to it. I have not been willing to be a party to it. I have not been willing to be a party to it. I have not been

CARTER LOST THE GAME.

SCHAEFER OUTPLAYS HIS WORRIED OF HIS OPPONENTS.

The Champion Finished the Game with a Series of Brilliant Runs—Cline Could Not Withstand the Constant Pressure That Was Kept Up—Schaefer Will Play Slosson To-Night.

There was a large and well-dressed crowd at the Madison Street Theater last night to witness the fourteen-inch balk-line billiard game between Jacob Schaefer, champion of the world, and Eugene Carter, winner of the balk-line championship last night. The conditions of the game were 4,000 points up, Schaefer to receive from Carter 1,000 points. The latter had defeated Slosson by 600 in twenty-four innings, and Schaefer had defeated the same player by 1,000 in twenty-three innings, so that the handicap was fair to the contestants. The game lasted until midnight, the champion finishing with a run of 1,000 points. Carter was unable to withstand the pressure that was brought to bear upon him by his opponent, and his playing was very poor. The score:

THE HUB

GREAT SALE

—OF THE—

FINEST TAILOR-MADE CLOTHING

IN CHICAGO!

—AT—

About One-Half Our Competitors' Prices.

It is a well-known fact among the Clothing trade of this country that we recently made one of the largest purchases of Fine Tailor-Made Clothing ever made by a single retailer in the United States from Messrs. Fechheimer, Goodkind & Co., New York City, who are known from Maine to California for manufacturing only superior Tailor-Made Clothing. This large purchase was made at about 25 per cent less than first cost of manufacture. On this account and in consequence of the extremely mild weather prevailing all through this season, we are greatly overstocked in fine goods, and to reduce our stock, we have decided to offer at once certain lines of goods at prices usually made at the end of the season, being about half the regular retail prices now prevailing. THE HUB never advertises what it don't perform. See these unequaled bargains and be your own judges of the truth of our statement.

The goods that we now call attention consist of the Finest Grades of Imported and Domestic Fabrics, with the most exquisite Silk and Satin Sleeve and Body Linings, being far superior to anything THE HUB has ever shown. The following low prices we positively assure the public are just ONE-HALF what is now charged by other houses for similar superior goods:

7 SUTHERLAND SISTERS.

Miss Nellie Massey's Portrait and Her Testimonial.

Chicago, Dec. 4, 1900.

Seven Sutherland Sisters—Dear Ladies: For years I have been troubled with dandruff, and my hair was falling. I never found any relief, although I had used various preparations, until I began using your valuable remedies—the Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Hair and Scalp Cleaner—and I now certify that they not only stopped my hair from falling, but have restored my scalp to a perfectly healthy condition, and my hair is growing rapidly in length and thickness, measuring 6½ inches. My friends could not believe that my hair could be made so beautiful and grow so rapidly. I earnestly recommend them to the public, for they will grow and beautify the hair in a very short time.

Yours respectfully,
MISS NELLIE MASSEY,

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

FURNITURE SALE EXTRAORDINARY.

To Reduce Stock

We will offer during the current month of December, commencing To-morrow (Monday) Morning, over Five Thousand Pieces of Furniture at Large Reductions from regular prices. Prices have been reduced on nearly all.

Bedroom Suits, Hall Stands, Sideboards, Parlor Cabinets, Plain Bookcases, Fancy Tables, Parlor Furniture, Mantel Cabinets, Library Tables, Brass Bedsteads, Parlor Desks, Fancy Chairs, Secretary Bookcases, Chiffoniers.

This reduction is made to move surplus stock prior to Inventory, and in so doing no regard is paid to the cost or value of the goods.

No similar opportunity to purchase First-Class Furniture of a reliable house at such Low Prices has ever before been presented in America, and will be taken advantage of by those who consult their own interests.

Included in the above are Hundreds of Pieces of Foreign Novelties, this season's importation, many of which are especially appropriate for HOLIDAY PRESENTS.

IN ADDITION TO THE ABOVE WE CALL ATTENTION TO

Our Art Department,

Replete with the Choicest and Latest Creations of Home and Foreign Marts. To adumbrate what can be shown you would be to mention in detail all that is now in vogue for "Artistic Home Decoration."

Our assortment is the largest in the city and exceptionally brilliant this season. Being direct importers, we are enabled to offer these goods at

25 TO 40 PER CENT BELOW REGULAR PRICES.

Parties intending to use New Furniture next spring will save money by purchasing of us now and allowing us to hold the goods, without expense, until wanted.

We Mark All Goods in Plain Figures,
We Sell For Cash Only,
